OVERVIEW

Jared is a patent agent in the firm's Intellectual Property Practice Group. He helps clients prepare and prosecute patent applications before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) for a wide variety of technologies. Jared works with clients, ranging from individuals and universities to multibillion-dollar corporations, to secure domestic and international patents.

During his undergraduate education, Jared honed his engineering skills as a fellow at the Siemens Healthineers Innovation Think Tank, as well as a convergence science fellow at Mayo Clinic.

Prior to joining the firm, Jared worked as a research and development engineer at an Atlanta-based surgical safety startup.
