OVERVIEW

Jennifer is a senior attorney for the firm's eMerge team, based in the Chicago office. In her practice, Jennifer applies experience in eDiscovery, information governance, and data protection with a focus on complex litigation and government investigations. She advises on best practices and collaborates with case teams to deploy strategies that will achieve the client's desired goals and outcomes. Jennifer excels in leveraging technology (including artificial intelligence) to understand data and maximize efficiency in fact gathering and analysis – from initial case assessment to identifying the best evidence for trial.
