Kimberly is admired by her clients as a business-minded lender's attorney who is knowledgeable, industry-aware, and practical. She approaches her practice in a deal-oriented manner while protecting her clients' interests and meeting the business goals of all involved parties.

OVERVIEW

Kim's practice focuses on lender representation in commercial real estate lending transactions, commercial finance, and troubled loan workouts. She represents a number of national, regional, and local banks and nonbank lenders in all aspects of secured and unsecured credit transactions, including real estate acquisition, development, and construction loans for many types of commercial real estate, health care lending transactions with a focus on the senior housing industry, complex loans secured by many types of personal or business assets, community development loans, loans to nonprofit entities, and loan purchases and sales.

Kim is especially known for representing lenders in the senior housing industry, and she proactively works closely with them and borrowers to craft deal terms that position all parties and projects for success.

Kim is acknowledged for her input on complex loan structures, her ability to tackle complicated intercreditor negotiations, and her approach to real estate and title-related issues.

She is a career member of the firm and of the Finance practice and is a member of many internal firm committees.
