OVERVIEW

Lou Lou is a registered patent attorney who counsels clients on intellectual property law, in particular focusing on U.S. patent and trademark prosecution. She assists both domestic and international clients in securing and maintaining patent rights across various fields, including telecommunications, materials science, medical devices, mechanics, and electronics. Lou Lou also represents clients in connection with trademark prosecution and portfolio management, assisting with trademark selection, clearance, registration, and maintenance.

In addition to her intellectual property practice, Lou Lou advises clients on corporate matters such as formation, compliance, and general filings, and assists with drafting employment and confidentiality agreements. Her practice also involves handling government investigations and business disputes as well as advising on employment-based immigration matters, including obtaining work authorization via H-1B, L-1, and EB-1A visas.
