Louis has extensive experience in inter partes and covered business method patent reviews, and prosecutes ex parte re-examinations for petitioners/requestors and patent owners. He travels to, and lectures extensively, in Japan. Louis has extensive knowledge of firearms and medical devices.

OVERVIEW

For more than 20 years, Louis has focused his practice on litigation, prosecution, and client counseling in the automotive, medical device, battery, molded plastic, and electromechanical areas and, more recently, blockchain. He also focuses on providing legal opinions on issues relating to patentability, freedom to operate, noninfringement, and invalidity.

An important portion of Louis' practice involves managing portfolios for U.S. and Japanese clients, as well as auditing and performing due diligence on intellectual property assets in the furtherance of licensing.

Louis has represented clients in a wide range of technologies, including DVD, audio equipment, cellular telephone, digital rights management, digital watermarking, internet content provision, optics for digital cameras, cutting tools, dialysis machines, absorbent articles, semiconductors, printed circuit board, circuit board connector technologies, fuel cells, and lithium batteries.

Prior to entering the practice of law, Louis was a civil engineer with a concentration and master's degree in water and hydraulics, and worked as a professional engineer in three states. He also worked extensively in water treatment and with hydraulic machinery.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

- For two separate patent owners, secured denials of inter partes review; both of the patents were in active litigation.
- Represented a patent owner in both an inter partes review and a covered business method patent review, and brought both to a successful settlement.
- Represented a patent owner in an inter partes re-examination and successfully reversed 10 grounds of rejection without a claim amendment.
- Obtained a decision by the Patent Trial and Appeal Board to overturn an examiner's determination of unpatentability, securing the patenting of a multicolor lip balm in an ex parte re-examination.

- Managed patent portfolios for clients ranging from startups to multibillion-dollar corporations in both the U.S. and Japan.
- Counseled clients on strategies involving the use of utility and design patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets to protect their intellectual property.
