OVERVIEW

MK focuses her practice on the development, acquisition, and financing of large-scale infrastructure assets, including public-private partnerships. She represents project developers, financial institutions and investors in the development, construction, financing, operations, and management of projects in the renewable energy, air, road, rail, social infrastructure (including higher education), water, and wastewater sectors. Her recent experience includes advising on utility-scale solar, wind, battery storage, water, wastewater, renewable natural gas and nuclear projects, and other innovative technologies.

Before joining the firm, MK was an associate at an international law firm, where she focused on public-private partnerships and alternative delivery methods for surface transportation, renewable energy and social infrastructure projects. She has worked on several award-winning, landmark infrastructure transactions in the U.S. and Caribbean, including public-private partnerships.
