Paul guides private equity funds, their portfolio companies, and owner-operated businesses through their varied strategic initiatives.

OVERVIEW

Paul represents middle- and lower-middle-market private equity funds and their portfolio companies, as well as owner-operated businesses, in a variety of investment activities and strategic transactions, with a focus on mergers and acquisitions. He serves as practice group leader of the firm's Private Equity + Investment Funds Practice Group.

Paul advises his clients' portfolio companies on their strategic priorities, including add-on acquisitions and dispositions, structuring management equity and other incentives, corporate governance matters, and debt and equity recapitalizations and restructurings. He also represents the company in its sale to a strategic or financial acquirer.

Paul's involvement in the full lifecycle of a private equity investment affords him the perspective to appreciate the various constituents' concerns and priorities when planning and implementing a client's strategies. This allows him to anticipate issues and craft creative and cost-effective solutions.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS
