Boards of directors, independent board committees, and senior management rely on Scott for counseling on general corporate, strategic, governance, disclosure, and transactional matters. He also advises emerging companies throughout their life cycle.

OVERVIEW

Scott focuses his practice in securities, mergers and acquisitions, and private equity transactions. He is particularly experienced in representing issuers, underwriters and investors in public and private offerings of equity and debt securities, and in acquisitions and dispositions of public and private companies. Scott also advises emerging companies in matters ranging from formation and venture financing to exit transactions.

Scott served as the deputy general counsel of Neose Technologies, Inc., a publicly traded clinical-stage biotechnology company. He is a certified public accountant and was an auditor for KPMG's New York office prior to earning his law degree. His clients included financial services companies, mutual funds and high technology companies.
