Simon manages complex litigation and regulatory enforcement actions for banks and non-bank financial services providers, bringing decades of experience in jury and non-jury trials, federal and state appellate arguments, and responding to investigations by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and the Illinois attorney general.

OVERVIEW

Simon focuses on risk management, government enforcement, and complex civil litigation nationwide within the banking and consumer financial services sectors.

Simon's clients include financial institutions, mortgage servicers, commercial lenders, and other consumer-facing businesses. He handles consumer-related operations such as payment procedures, website accessibility, online payment fees, collateral preservation, default servicing, and credit reporting. Additionally, Simon advises on lender liability, U.C.C. Article 9 duties, and cannabis-related risk management.

Simon uses a strategic approach to mitigating risks and navigating regulatory landscapes. He is dedicated to understanding each client's unique challenges and utilizing a proactive communication style.
