OVERVIEW

Trent is an attorney in the firm's Energy Transactional practice, assisting project sponsors, developers, lenders, and private equity investors in the energy and infrastructure sectors with respect to due diligence, construction, development, and financing matters, including on renewable energy matters utilizing tax credits.

Prior to joining the firm, Trent practiced community development finance at a national law firm, where he assisted a variety of clients, including corporate investors, national syndicators, private equity funds, major financial institutions, and upper-tier investors. This work included the application of low-income housing tax credits, energy tax credits, and other related federal and state financing programs. He also assisted institutional clients on partnership restructurings and the transfer or disposition of partnership interests and assets.

 Licensed to practice in Missouri and Nebraska. Application pending for admission to Texas Bar.*
