OVERVIEW

Viktoriia is an environmental and natural resources attorney with experience in regulatory compliance, permitting, due diligence, enforcement, and litigation matters. She focuses her practice on advising clients on all aspects of compliance with the Endangered Species Act (ESA), the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act (BGEPA), and the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (MBTA). Viktoriia works with real estate developers, wind, solar, and transmission line operators, and other businesses on wildlife issues that come up during federal and state permitting. She also has experience with the Federal Aviation Administration regulations that relate to siting of wind farms and other renewable and development projects. In addition, Viktoriia is a member of the firm's State Energy Regulation practice where she represents clients before the Virginia State Corporation Commission and Maryland Public Service Commission. Over the years Viktoriia has also developed proficiency in advising clients how to address environmental justice requirements that arise in permitting, litigation, and other contexts. She has also been assisting clients in developing company-wide strategies for compliance with various reporting obligations, for example, EPA's TSCA PFAS reporting rule.

Her client base includes electric utilities, wind farm operators, solar and community solar developers, other renewable energy companies, land developers, manufacturers, health care companies, agricultural businesses, and other private and public companies.
