OVERVIEW

Trey focuses his practice on representing and advising regulated utilities before state public utility commissions. He routinely helps clients obtain certificates of public convenience and necessity for transmission infrastructure. In this role, Trey works with his clients' subject-matter experts to manage administrative proceedings, including by preparing initial filings; responding to discovery requests; drafting rebuttal testimony; and litigating any disputed issues.

In addition to his regulated utility practice, Trey regularly helps financial institutions, pharmaceutical companies, and other consumer-facing businesses navigate regulatory investigations and resulting litigation. He has experience litigating State UDAAP statutes, the Consumer Financial Protection Act, the FTC Act, the Truth in Lending Act, and other state and federal consumer protection laws.

Trey also assists clients with a variety of government contracts issues, including contract performance, administration, protests, claims and claim appeals; and prime/sub disputes in federal and state court. He also often assists businesses with navigating the Davis-Bacon Act.
